[illegible] Expected To Greet JFK

BY CARL FREUND

Dallas police said Thursday night they anticipate that "thousands of welcomers" will jam Love Field to greet President Kennedy when his jet airliner lands there Friday morning.

Police Capt. Glen King said [illegible] anticipate parking [illegible] the airport will be filled long before the scheduled arrival of the President at 11:35 a.m.

Capt. King said police will divert additional cars into an auxiliary lot which motorists may reach by turning right off Cedar Springs Road after passing the Ramada Inn.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Weather Bureau forecast cloudy skies and occasional showers.

A motorcade will carry President Kennedy, Vice-President Lyndon Johnson, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, Gov. John Connally and other Texas congressmen from the airport through flag-bedecked Downtown Dallas to the Trade Mart on Stemmons Freeway.

Ed Reynolds, president of the Dallas Retail Merchants Association, urged owners and tenants of Main Street buildings to fly the U.S. flag. He said the association also arranged for overhead [illegible].

Former Vice-President Richard [illegible], who was against President Kennedy in 1960, joined police in [illegible] Dallas residents to give President [illegible] and Mrs. Kennedy a courteous reception."

[illegible] Texas, who was in Dallas for a meeting of his district brotherhood, said he hopes people "show up and help their fellowmen."

One anti-Kennedy faction distributed leaflets which condemned the President for his stand on integration. The leaflets also criticized U.S. foreign policy.

U.S. Atty. Barefoot Sanders said he was investigating to determine whether the leaflets violated federal laws. Police Chief Jesse Curry said anyone found scattering leaflets would face prosecution for violating "Dallas City [illegible]."

[illegible] the President's plane will give [illegible] time after the motorcade.

President Kennedy will ride in a blue convertible. In case it is raining, a plexiglass bubble will protect him.

The specially built car was flown here for use in the motorcade.

Police said the motorcade will move slowly so that crowds can "get a good view" of President Kennedy and his wife.

Democratic leaders said they were still hoping President Kennedy will make an impromptu speech when he leaves his plane at gate 21 on the east concourse of Love Field. This is the area where Madrone Airlines flights normally land and unload.

A dispute over invitations to the Trade Mart luncheon still smoldered with liberal Democrats claiming they didn't get a fair share of invitations.

A spokesman for the Dallas Citizens Council, Dallas Assembly and Science Academy Center, which are sponsoring the nonpolitical luncheon, said, "We've got everything ready."
